

Greetings!

We have a lot of great new coins!

I have acquired quite a few coins at the Portland, Oregon ANA Spring show as well as the March Baltimore show. Some highlights include a 1796 dime in MS-64 NGC, an 1809 dime in MS-64 NGC, an 1841-O dime Closed Buds Small o in VG-10, an 1804 quarter LDS, three 1818 B-9 quarters of which two have the arrows clash, an 1822 25/50 quarter in PCGS VG-8, an 1825 B-1 quarter in VF, an 1828 25/50 quarter in AU, an 1870-CC quarter PCGS Genuine (VG details), an 1854 dollar in VG, and over 30 Bust halves (many are EF - AU). Note: I will be out of the office Thurs. April 8 until 7 pm. To reserve a coin, please e-mail me at richuhrichcoins@comcast.net.

The sale I announced last month continues. Please note that new items have been priced with the current market conditions in mind, and therefore their current prices represent sale prices.

As is our normal policy, we accept personal checks and money orders. Credit cards and PayPal are not accepted because their fees eat up too much of our profits. Please include $6 for shipping on every order.

At the sale prices, I can't take trades or offer layaways. However, if you can't possibly do a deal without them, call me and I will listen to what you have to say.

I want to thank you for your business, and keep collecting what you like!

THE CURRENT COIN MARKET

My take on the current coin market is as follows:

- (1) Reports from dealers at Portland and Baltimore were mixed. Some dealers did quite well and others were disappointed. In talking with many of these dealers, it appeared to me that results were based on what kind of coins they had in their cases. At a major show, generic coins don't do very well, as collectors can find them anywhere including their local coin shops. Better coins = better sales.
- (2) Our sales in Portland were much better than expectations, while our sales in Baltimore were a bit under expectations. Volume at both venues was significant, but the more expensive coins appear not to be selling well.
- (3) Auctions are showing the same trends dealers are seeing, even moreso. Some coins either didn't sell or sold for very low prices at the auctions, but higher-quality material brought high prices. Check out the Stack's sale Matte Proof Lincoln cents for examples of this trend (prices include 15% buyers fee)::

(4) I didn't develop this chart to "talk up" my own coins (after all, they have already been sold), but to make a point: Some Coins Are Worth Over Bid. And guess what? All of those coins listed above I initially bought above Bid. If you want to own coins that people will be stretching to buy when you sell, you probably can't buy them under Bid. I can't either.

(5) Some collectors, investors and dealers are selling coins outside their focus areas. A major dealer has discontinued carrying 2c pieces, 3c nickels, and Shield Nickels. I am in the process of discontinuing carrying Barber Quarters and Trade Dollars.

Our next shows are local shows on April 11 in York, PA, followed by larger shows on April 17 - 19 in Dalton, GA and April 23 - 26 in Dulles, VA. The Hershey, PA show is May 2 - 3 followed by the Chambersburg, PA show on May 16. Stop by and see us!
